

ABSTRACT

Bearing provided with a device for detecting magnetic pulses emanating from an encoder, said device comprising several aligned sensitive elements.

The invention relates to a bearing provided with an annular means generating magnetic pulses and with a device for detecting these pulses, wherein the detection device comprises a plurality of aligned sensitive elements.